City Council Election; Charter Change On Ballot

PORTERVILLE, Apr. 2 — Voters of the city of Porterville will go to the polls next Tuesday to select two city councilmen from six candidates, and will also vote on a ballot proposition to change the charter status of the city library.

Seeking council seats are: Dr. P. H. McKay, incumbent; Harold Austin, Howard Beard, Ernie Cassidy, Aubrey M. Lumley and Bill Rodgers. Jack Natzke, whose council term expires with that of Dr. McKay, is not seeking re-election.

Of interest to rural as well as city residents is the proposed charter change that would place the Porterville city library directly under city council control rather than under state of California law. The change is designed to retain "home control" of the library.

A "Yes" vote is recommended on this charter change.

The 17 city precincts have been consolidated into three voting precincts, with precincts No. 3, 4, 11, 12 and 13 voting at the Fraternal Center; precincts 2, 9, 10, 14, 15 and 16 voting at the Porterville Women's clubhouse, and precincts 1, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 17 voting at the American Legion hall.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. There are a total of 3,008 voters officially registered for the election.

NO STOPPING FARM PRODUCTION

Now that the dust created by roaring typewriters, flashing pencils and falling carbon paper is beginning to subside, it looks like Tulare county cotton growers have lined up about as follows: 1,714 of them have decided to go with plan B, which means a lower support level but more acreage, while about 2,474 have decided to further restrict acreage but retain their right to the highest support.

But another important aspect of the situation is that with it all, there will be nearly 34,000 more acres of cotton in Tulare county this season than there was last season, and it can be expected that the state of California may hit a record production figure this year under the program that was supposedly designed, in part at least, to keep production down to the requirements of that old law of supply and demand.

This will be an interesting year in cotton, for it is more than likely that when the 1959 crop harvest season has ended, there will be another record established — a record in national cotton program confusion.

And looking a little further in the field of generalities, 1958 brought the highest average all-crop yield per acre ever reached in the United States. All crops considered, yields were 43 per cent larger than the average of fair to excellent years of 1947 through 1949, and increase has been considerable all through the 1950 years.

Which means that 57 acres of land harvested in 1958 gave as much food, feed and fiber to the nation as did 100 acres no longer than 10 years ago.

There is no reason to believe that this trend of more production per acre will not continue upward. The remarkable thing is that in the face of this development of the past 10 years, those farm segments that continued to run their own affairs through their own associations and through their own marketing agreements have prospered and expanded, while those segments of agriculture that have sought to meet the requirements of this modern age through government control and subsidy, are the ones that are in trouble.

This latter group has prospered, to be sure, but on a basis of taxpayer subsidy rather than on a basis of sound economics.

There is no stopping farm production. The problem is to sell it and use it. Why can't we read the writing on the wall — the boys in Washington have proved by the record that they are no where near as smart as farmers, so why don't we all steam up a little political courage and demand that progressive elimination of the favored few subsidies and supports be started now?

MARKETING GROUP SELLS 113,242 HEAD

VISALIA, Apr. 2 — California Farm Bureau Marketing association sold, in 1958, 113,242 head of livestock — 70,778 cattle, 32,542 hogs, 9,922 sheep—for a total return of $12,125,936.53.

We Only Heard

By BILL RODGERS

SO THE campaign for Porterville City Council is now in its final days — the election is next Tuesday, April 7, and we urge all eligible voters to cast their ballot early.

WE HAVE tried to define the issues of this city election as we see them — as we see them from three standpoints: A candidate for city council, a working reporter, and a taxpayer citizen and businessman of the city.

AND HERE is a brief, final summary of ideas as presented in this column: There is too much tendency in the city hall toward one-man government; there has been loose handling of city tax money by city councilmen involving expense items at League of California Cities meetings; there is a lack of definite policy and procedure in the office of the city purchasing agent; there is room for considerable strengthening of the "chain of executive orders" from city council, through the city manager and department heads, down to those persons within departments; a fallacious type of thinking has developed within the office of the mayor and the city manager that public records should be seen by the public only at discretion of the mayor; there is a need for considerably more long-term planning for development of and maintenance of city facilities; long ago a mistake should have been admitted by city councilmen and parking meters taken off city parking lots.

THESE ARE some of the areas in which we believe improvement can be made in city administration. But may we also repeat that the city of Porterville certainly has many favorable attributes: The city's financial situation is good; most city employees are hard working and conscientious; the day-to-day routine of the city is accomplished, for the most part, in a satisfactory manner.

AND MAY we further repeat that there is nothing wrong in the city hall that five councilmen, meeting in open session as prescribed by the city charter cannot correct; the roof of the city hall is not ready to fall in, there is just a little loosening at the seams that needs to be corrected through a shot of new ideas and a bit of administrative tightening.

SO MUCH for that. Now, may we tell you that our door-to-door campaigning has been most interesting. In fact, we recommend that as a form of pleasant recreation, anyone might walk down a city street, knocking on doors, talking to complete strangers (who without exception are courteous and apparently glad to chat for a couple of minutes.)

AND IT'S always a pleasant surprise when a personal friend comes to the door, or when an elderly person who you "knew when you were a boy" answers your knock.

CERTAINLY NOT the least of the pleasant aspects of door-to-door campaigning is that while you walk down a street you take a good look at it — a different look than you get from a car. Try walking sometime; it's getting to be almost a lost art.

AND THE dogs. Wow. What a collection in the southwest and southeast areas of the city. All shapes and all sizes, but with a common disposition. They don't like door-to-door campaigners.

FINALLY JUST one little incident. We knocked on one apartment door, campaign material in hand, and who greeted us but Ann B. Davis, the Emmy-winning Schultz of the Bob Cummings show, and an alumnus of the Porterville Barn theater. Seems Ann was between Chicago and Los Angeles, enjoying a brief Porterville stop to visit her parents here; with her was her twin sister, from Massachusetts. (There's a note for Luella Parsons. Schultz has a twin sister.) Our campaign for the evening pretty well broke down at this point, as we talked about the old days at the Barn, and Ann flattered us by saying that she still has some of the reviews we wrote about her; she said she was just returning from a theater engagement in Chicago; her future plans are indefinite, but unlike her early days in the entertainment field, when planning consisted of trying to figure where the next meal was coming from, she now has several offers from which to choose. And she says Pete Tewksbury, organizer of the Barn theater and its first director, may also move into new fields of big time TV directing, and that Richard Deacon, another Barn alumnus, is the busiest actor in Hollywood — supporting roles in TV and movies.

SO CAMPAIGNING has been pleasant. Now, you Porterville people, please join us in voting, next Tuesday, 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

CHAPEL CHIMES

By
Rev. N. J. Thompson

An orchid to District Attorney Jay Ballantyne for his drive to clean up the news stands. He stated that these smutty magazines are mostly produced in California by men with police records, while many of the models they use are prostitutes and drug addicts. "These publications are depraving our youth and seriously affecting their morals," Ballantyne said.

Why doesn't the law crack down on the publishers of this filthy literature? And the Post Office should refuse to handle it.

FBI Chief Hoover, vacationing at LaJolla last August, said, "No community has to accept low moral standards. You can declare war on crime by considering the forces that impress the minds of youth. Are bad taste, vulgarity, sex, and violence being promoted on news stands, theater marquees, newspaper advertising?"

The Committee of Child Welfare, United Nations, analyzed 250 American films and found in them: 97 murders; 51 cases of adultery; 19 seductions; 22 abductions; 45 suicides. The films had 176 thieves, 25 prostitutes, 35 drunkards. And many of these movies are shown on TV screens.

The vice, violence, and vulgarity of movies and TV make a serious scar on the impressionable minds of our youngsters. How serious? Well, 42% of all major crimes in California are committed by youths under 18! Thus, it is imperative that our children be shielded from such evil influences.

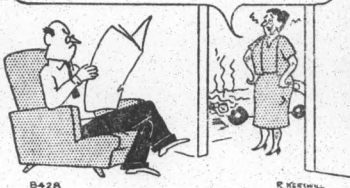

There is something else that seriously damages morals—drinking. In 1956, the 6¼ million California drinkers consumed 242 million gallons of alcoholic beverages.

Now, Mr. Ballantyne, please fight the vile movies and TV shows, the drunken driving, and sales of liquor to minors. That'll do, for a start.

No need to remind you that "righteousness exalteth a nation."

Soil Water Important To Growth Of Cotton

VISALIA, Apr. 2 — Storage of water in the soil now is important to growth of cotton during the growing season, according to Farm Advisor Alan George, who points out that building up a reserve of moisture now will permit seedlings to establish a root system to full depth during the early growing season.

On deep soil, the soil should be wet to water-holding capacity to at least six feet to start the season, George states; on shallow soils, to at least the depth of rooting of mature plants.

Thirty-ninth annual California ram sale will be held at the state fair grounds in Sacramento, Mar. 3, 4 and 5.

Springville Hobby Club met last

THIS COWBOY on top of a ton of twisting action is typical of the type of performance that rodeo fans will see at the annual Springville Rodeo, April 11 and 12. And this event, staged in the colorful Gill arena on the Balch park road, offers a fine backdrop for a family picnic and a day in the Sierra's most beautiful foothills.

Friday in the home of Mrs. Goldie Haggard. After roll call and reading of the minutes the group decided to buy an Easter dress for their patient at the hospital.

Refreshments of jello, cake, coffee and tea were served to Mmes. Ethel Rush, Ann Baird, Nell Southworth, Lora Gage, Juanita Radeleff, Winnie Gage and Misses Alice Smith and Lucille Higgins.

April meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Lora Gage and will be hat day.

March meeting of the V.F.W. held on March 18th in the Memorial building was the annual election of officers. Omar Lippert was elected commander, replacing Allan Gage; Ira Dunlap was re-elected senior vice commander, replacing Herb Brown; Wilson Large remains Surgeon; Herb Brown quartermaster, replacing Bill Willis; Allan Gage, judge advocate replacing Leo Kerr, Rudy Daniels remains chaplain; Leo Kerr elected trustee for three years. Other officers will be appointed later.

The V.F.W. is sponsoring Miss Sue Hughes for rodeo queen.

Mrs. Ray Hamar visited her daughter, Mrs. Clara Chapman and family in Visalia over the weekend.

YOUR LEGISLATOR AT WORK!

Senator
J. Howard Williams
32nd District
California State Legislature

A ticklish task which will probably confront your legislators is the job of balancing the equities between various elements in our economy which clash over a particular bill. Whatever the outcome may be, some of us are certain to have difficulty in explaining our votes to some people.

Situations of this type have become increasingly common in recent sessions because particular economic interests are calling on us legislators more frequently to pass laws favoring them in some way. At times this can be done without affecting any other group, but at others we have to be exceedingly careful to make sure that nothing adverse to anyone results.

Generally, the several economic groups which might be affected by legislation relating to prices, business practices, sanitation, or other factors of importance to them have legislative advocates who let us know the facts about any particular bill as they would affect their clients. Sometimes, however, a particular interest has no such representation. Yet its problems cannot be completely ignored.

That is why we, as individual lawmakers, must carefully evaluate every measure which comes before us for action. It is one of our primary functions to assure that all viewpoints on the various measures are given adequate consideration in the enactment of new laws.

Sometimes our task is complicated by the necessity of sifting the conflicting contentions about the purpose, or lack of purpose of a particular measure. But to help us do this fairly we have the orderly process based upon our state Constitution, under which each measure is heard in committee in each house, before final action by the full house, and under which it takes favorable action by both houses before a measure can become law.

Frequently, in an argument over proposed business legislation, we find that opposing sides are both advancing the same reason for their respective attitude on a proposed law. Not uncommonly, we hear one side claim that a particular bill should be passed "to protect the consumer", while the other just as vociferously argues that it should be killed for the same reason. It is occasions like those which try legislators' minds and fortitude.

As an example of what is meant, there are two bills before an Assembly committee which would regulate the price to be paid the farmer for milk used in the manufacture of such products as cottage cheese and buttermilk. The arguments being advanced by supporters and opponents of the bills put the lawmakers who must hear them in committee almost squarely in the middle, but nevertheless, a decision one way or the other must be reached.

Proponents of the bills maintain their passage is needed in the interest of public health. Those in opposition claim that, on the contrary, the measures have no connection with keeping high standards of public health, and that in reality, they would increase the cost of the milk products to consumers by several million dollars annually.

The issues involved in these measures seem fairly complicated. It is up to those of us legislators who hear them in committee to determine the basis in fact of the conflicting contentions. We must find out if there is a public health angle really involved, or whether a price increase to the consumer would be the only result of passing the bills. One side or the other is sure to be displeased by the outcome. But that is why legislatures exist, to make laws in the greatest public interest.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

- Mumps
- Fish Eye Injections
- Skin Stripes

Q. "Should children, especially little boys, be deliberately exposed to a case of mumps so they won't have it later on?"
—A reader.

A. The idea of getting it over with springs up because children rarely have complications with mumps whereas adults, especially men, often develop serious trouble during and after the disease. While it may be desirable to have mumps early, deliberate exposure is another matter; serious complications are indeed uncommon but they do occur. Also, the exposed child may bring mumps home and give it to adults who could have a severe case of the disease and perhaps be left with permanent damage.

Q. "I have heard that eye cataracts can be cured by injections made from fish eyes. What can you tell me about this?" —A faithful reader.

A. Various nonsurgical treatments, including use of fish lens extract, have been tried in cataracts. Such treatments, according to two New York specialists, have not been very successful. There is no really good medical treatment for cataract. When an operation does become necessary, the cataract patient can take comfort in knowing that in most cases surgery will provide useful, even excellent, vision.

Q. "I am 13 and my busts have developed pinkish stripes. What is the cause and what can be done to clear this up?"
—Worried.

A. This sort of thing is not so rare in young girls who more or less suddenly begin to move rapidly toward womanhood. The stripes, as you call them, are due to stretching of the skin. In all probability they will disappear in time. Youngsters whose busts are so large as to be discommoding would do well to contact the family physician.

Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician. Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

By CASEY TIBBS

FT. PIERRE, S. D. — The next two weeks are the lazy days for the rodeo cowboy... prob'ly the only chance before Thanksgiving when he's got time to take off his boots and change his socks.

Between now and the middle of April, the winners count their greenbacks and the losers start practicing in the back forty.

Rodeo's an 11-month season, though and the ones scheduled for this period will still attract a lot o' hands.

There's a $3,125 purse up in Shreveport, La., April 1-5; $1,000 at Vancouver, Wash., April 4-5 and two California rodeos — Oakdale and Springville — on the weekend of April 11-12.

The Lubbock rodeo ended last week and came out just as successful as a cat with feathers on its whiskers.

The bronc riding was the most exciting event at Lubbock... but not for the Americans. Those Canadians beat 'em to death for the prize money.

Keith Hyland Black Diamond, Alberta, Canada, upset the betting averages by winnin' first place money of $1,199 with a 185 marking on "Necktie", one of the roughest bronses goin' this year.

Deb Copenhaver of Post Falls, Idaho, drew "Knott Inn", runner-up for "Bucking Horse of the Year" in 1958, and split third in the final payoff.

Deb got beat out for second place by another Canadian—Winston Bruce of Forestburg, Alberta—who also won the 1958 Canadian saddle bronc championship.

The week before, Canadians cleared the bronc riding board at the $40,000 Jaycee Rodeo in Phoenix, winning the top three monies in the saddle bronc pay window.

Top money at Lubbock was Jim Charles, El Centro, Calif., who won $1,365 in the one-head event and went to seventh place in the bull riding standings.

Jim Shoulders, Henryetta, Okla., last year's triple-crown winner moved up to third place in the all-around standings with a second place win on the bulls in Lubbock.

Top calf roper at Lubbock was Lanham Riley, Ft. Worth, Tex., who wrapped two head in 26.8 seconds to win $1,348. Bill Fedderson, El Reno, Okla., threw two steers in a total of 12.8 seconds for first place money of $1,261.

A Lawton, Okla., twister named Freckles Brown took the top bare-back money of $1,286.

Being at Phoenix again this year reminded me of the time we were there a few years back and 20th-Century Fox was filming a movie called "Bus Stop", starring Arthur O'Connell, Marilyn Monroe and Don Murray.

I was doublin' for Murray in most of the action stuff and they had Arthur O'Connell behind the chute to turn out one of the bare-back horses for me.

I got all set... told 'em, "Outside, boys"... the gate opened and, about the third jump out, the cinch broke on me. I went about 10 feet high, then landed in the sand on the back of my neck.

When I got up, the riggin' was still in my hand. While I was stumblin' around, tryin' to find out which way was up, I heard one of the hands tellin' O'Connell:

"Take a look at that fool Casey! Man, he'll do anything to get in the movies!"

The buckin' horse sale and round-up at the Ox Yoke Ranch in Nemo, S. D., is scheduled for the last Sunday in May, with so many broom tails comin' in from all over the country, we'll probably have to start buckin' and sellin' at daybreak.

A special invitation went out to the Australian cowpokes to spend 30 days beddin' down at the Ox Yoke. They can use the arena for a training camp and get the feel of our saddles underneath 'em 'fore they start competin' for real!

WE THE PEOPLE

Statements made in this column do not necessarily reflect the editorial opinion of The Farm Tribune.

April 2, 1959

Editor, The Farm Tribune
Dear Sir:

I understand the independent olive canners are coming out with new contracts for independent olive growers to sign, offering various and sundry bonuses, contracts that they themselves will establish the going prices.

Why are they offering contracts at this time when the Independent Olive Growers of California are offering independent olive growers agreements to sign? The canners are only offering these contracts to disrupt and make impotent the growers' organization which has been formed to represent the growers as a bargaining agent with the canner.

We do not restrict the grower from sending his olives to the canner of his choice, providing the canner is able to meet the requirements of the association as to financial responsibility and price.

I suggest you contact the association offices before signing any independent canner's contract.

What the Independent Olive Growers of California is attempting to do is to make a reality of group bargaining.

We feel that we have a better bargaining position as a group representing 6 to 9,000 tons rather than the individual of a few tons.

We want to bring stability to the industry and eliminate a repetition of 1958.

Yours sincerely,
s/ ALFRED A. HOLVE

FIELD DAY FOR BEEF AND DAIRY, SUNDAY

BURTON, Apr. 2 — A field day at the Faure Feed lot has been set by the Burton 4-H club, Sunday, for all club members with beef and dairy projects; Dick Pratt is in charge of arrangements.

At the March meeting of the club at the Burton school, Mrs. Richard Pratt distributed tickets for the county 4-H carnival and barbecue; John Davenport reported on a recent electricity meeting; Susan Rodgers told of the recent talent and demonstrations field day, and a skating party with Terra Bella, Ducor and Springville 4-H clubs was announced for March 26.

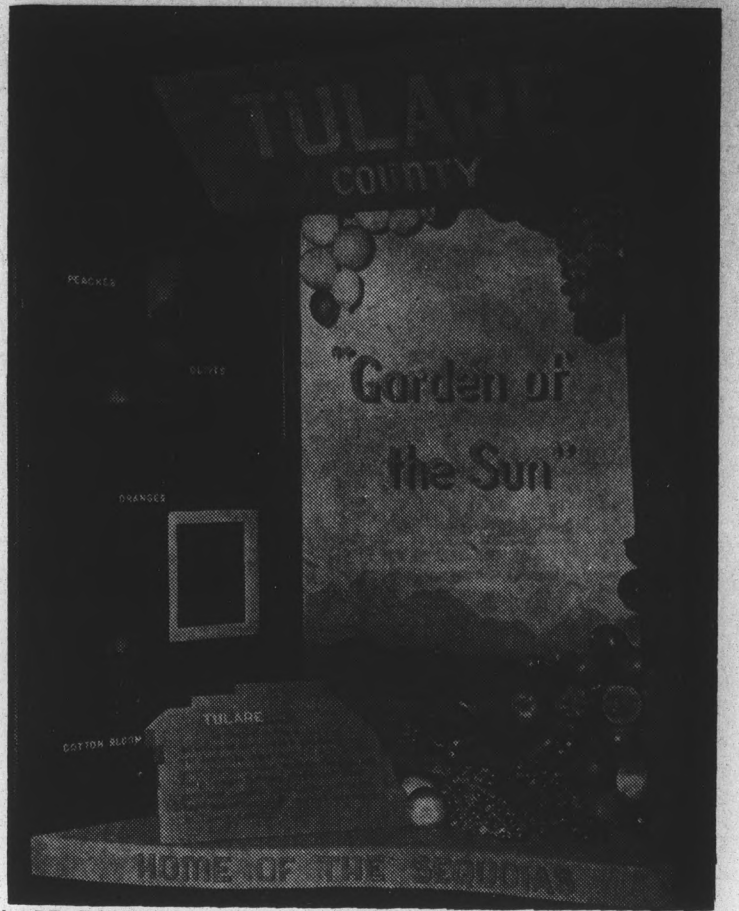

Project reports were given by Terry Meek, Kathy Peterson, Gary Reed, Loretta Sanders, Perry Smith, Bud West and John Sunderland. President Gary Crabtree presided at the meeting; Eleanor Jolliffe led the flag salute and 4-H pledge; Eleanor Jolliffe, Ronnie Frankum and Crabtree conducted games after the regular meeting.

WES KUTZNER TAKES RECORD FISH

SPRINGVILLE, Apr. 2 — A sail fish that tipped the beam at 160 kilos was taken by Wes Kutzner, of Springville during a 10-day trip to Manzanillo, in Lower California, the fish being the largest in the harbor on that day.

Wes fought the fish for an hour and 25 minutes before gaffing it. He also caught a shark, a sea turtle and four Sierras during the trip.

In the party were Mrs. Kutzner, Mr. and Mrs. Al Hammons, of Springville, and Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Thomson, of Chilliwich, British Columbia.

TULARE COUNTY now has an exhibit in the Capitol Annex in Sacramento which competes with the best of the other 57 counties. Planned and executed by Keith Skidmore of Bakersfield, who is a graduate of Porterville schools, it is a highly colored, three dimensional layout carrying the theme "Garden of the Sun". The size of the exhibit is about four feet wide, five feet tall and two feet deep. Set in the Capitol corridor nich the white frame enhances the colors. All exhibits are about 30 inches above the floor of the corridor. The exhibit has been worked out in forest green, California lime and orange with a little of the persimmon shade to break the monotony where necessary. The indirect lighting brings out the three dimensional plan to add depth to an otherwise difficult arrangement.

GOODRICHS ARE VISITORS FROM ALASKA

SPRINGVILLE, Apr. 2 — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Goodrich, of Soldatana, Alaska, were recent visitors in Springville, their former home, and Porterville, during a three-week trip to California.

They also attended a party, on March 26, at Riverside, marking the 100th birthday of Frank Fossett, father of Mrs. Goodrich, who also formerly lived at Springville.

FISH FOR FEATHERS

By

Carp are spawning in the waters of the Mendota Waterfowl Management area and this can provide a lot of fishing fun for the bow and arrow fraternity. The fish and game department is anxious for archers to take advantage of this sport but remind them the fishing arrow must be attached to the bow by a line. Carp taken must be utilized or buried.

Archers may also take frogs with the same tackle and in the same area.

A fishing license is required, a regular $3 license plus one $1 stamp for carp but only the regular $3 license for frogs.

A crew from the state fisheries branch have been constructing and installing brush shelters in Millerton lake. Object is to improve fishing conditions in the immediate vicinity of the shelters as the fish, especially crappie, concentrate near them. To date 27 of these shelters have been installed with 23 more to go. They are located in various areas of Winchell Cove and may be recognized by a buoy with a small yellow flag containing the words, "Depart-

OUR TOWN

By Gardner (Bud) Wheeler

LAST TUESDAY, THE CITIZENRY hereabouts marched off to the polls to assert their rights as voters. The occasion for all this ballot stamping was the vote on the elementary school over-ride tax. It is doubtful if any subject has been more thoroughly studied than the methods, financing and needs of the elementary school district. For past many weeks, discussions and debates have been going on anywhere that three people met. The air waves have been reasonably well saturated, if not with rain, at least with comments on the school situation. Anyone in our town who didn't have first hand knowledge of the situation must have been visiting his old maid aunt in Traver for the past six months.

WHEN THE SHOUTING AND the tumult died, and the votes were counted, the citizenry discovered that they had voted in the over-ride tax by an approximate two to one majority. It is a credit to the community that it wants to keep the schools in an upright, literate position. The vote might also be construed as a vote of confidence for the board and administration. Sometimes these people need a little morale boosting as a relief from dodging verbal brickbats. Certainly, one and all ment of Fish and Game, Brush Shelters". Many anglers have been under the impression fishing was prohibited near them but the exact opposite is the fact.

Some of the clam preserves in San Luis Obispo county will be open April 4. At Oceano the presently closed area from the foot of Pier Avenue to the old LeGrande Pier pilings will be opened and at Morro Beach from 35th Street to Hotel Point.

On the effective date there will be a -0.1 tide at 2:10 p.m., and this being a Saturday should result in a record crowd.

Clam beaches to be closed April 4 include that portion of beach commonly known as Morro Beach lying between the mouth of Hazard canyon and a point opposite the south end of Morro Bay, about 2.0 miles. The other portions of the present clam preserves at Cayucos and Pismo-Oceano beach will remain unchanged.

Starting April 4 the size limit on Pismo clams will be changed from 5 to 4 1/2 inches south of the Monterey-San Luis Obispo county line.

Abalone season opened March 16 with no change in the bag and size limit.

Black bass fishing on Don Pedro reservoir, Tuolumne county has been excellent with numerous fish taken that have weighed in excess of five pounds. Tulloch reservoir is supporting a large number of fishermen who have been catching lots of small bass and fair sized crappie.

are now well-acquainted with the inner workings of elementary education in our town. As yet, we have seen no new classrooms popping up, but by fall we hope the moppets will have a little more elbow room than they have today.

WE SOMETIMES COMMENT on unsung heroes round and about. In fact, most heroes fall in this category. Today we would like to call attention to one Eldon Hunt, who is performing week-ends over at the Barn Theater. Eldon is busily engaged in playing the father in "Cheaper by the Dozen". He does this job superbly, too. The interesting part is that Eldon jumped into the part and learned it only two weeks before the show opened. Those who have seen the play realize that this feat is a bit more complicated than learning "Mary Had A Little Lamb" which Eldon has been known to recite on occasion, too. Through many reasons, Eldon has contributed a great deal to the Barn with his performances, and has materially enhanced the Barn's reputation in our book.

TIME IS RUNNING SHORT, and our editor is making gruesome, nasal noises about our tendency to overlook the deadlines. Next week we hope to enlighten our public with a little study entitled "The Menace", or "I Was A Teen-age Chaperone".

MORE HOGS FOR THE WEST

LOS ANGELES, Apr. 2 — Western States Meat Packers association will start a study with swine producers, and other interested persons, in an effort to increase hog production in the 10 western states to a point where this area will no longer depend for its major pork supply on the midwest.

KEEP YOUR Porterville City Library Under HOME CONTROL Vote "YES" On Charter Amendment Next Tuesday, April 7

These Are The Reasons For Your "Yes" Vote

Section 56 of the City Charter states simply that "the Public Library shall be run in accordance with the General Law of the State of California, as pertains to municipal libraries." Therefore ANY change in the present State Law would immediately affect our Library.

We have run successfully for 32 years under the present law. However, there are some recommendations now being made to the state legislature for changes in that law. These changes are several in number, but all point to bringing small libraries directly under the control of the state. The suggestions for consolidation of small libraries, for grouping in large systems with control at a distance from the small community, for state aid, with resultant state control, all tend to eliminate local autonomy . . . and tend toward centralization of authority — of decision — in a distant city.

These changes may be made permissive, or they may be made compulsive . . . so it seems wiser to remove our library from under the state law, and put it under the City Council.

We lose nothing by this . . . we gain the right to make our own decisions.

The new charter provision reads: "The free public library of the City of Porterville shall be established, conducted, carried on, managed and operated in accordance with rules, regulations, and ordinances passed, and adopted by the Council of the City of Porterville."

Any questions on this amendment will be gladly answered by the Library Trustees or the Library staff.

Nursery
By John

Many of the nurserymen in California belong to a group called the Nursery Association. This gives us a chance to get together and figure out ways to outwit the public. This is necessary because most of the public are smarter than most of the nurserymen.

Along these lines the organized nurserymen of California are having a gigantic sale called the can-can carnival of nursery values. This is sort of a corny title except that C.A.N. stands for California Association of Nurserymen, and many of the things we sell come in cans.

This sale will feature many of the things you would be buying anyway — Really should save you some money except that somehow it doesn't always come out this way. Possibly because we tempt you with some other things while you are looking around.

However, if you close your eyes and just buy Dichondra Food, Steer Manure, or one of the Flowering Shrubs we have on sale you'll come out ahead. There are also some nice Azaleas for 59c, some Martha Washington Geraniums for 85c, and we'll cook up some more things as it goes along. Guaranteed No "Dogs" — just useful items.

This Can-Can sale lasts from April 3rd to April 12th. Gives you plenty of time to talk the old man out of a dollar or two so come on around and have a look.

Work will start Monday at the Gill arena, with crews of volunteer workers, using donated equipment, putting the arena roadway and parking area in shape, and repairing bleachers, chutes and corals.

Three major divisions have been set for the parade, all in the Western theme: Mounted groups and individuals, floats, and baton twirlers. Trophies will go to winners in each division; ribbons will go to second and third places.

Persons desiring to place entries in the parade should contact Clinkenbeard at Springville.

As another special feature, Saturday, Porterville's Canterbelles will ride in the morning parade and will present their mounted drill as an arena feature in the afternoon.

packed in the field. Appleby states that through use of the field ladder, which can be set at the end of a row, or mounted on a trailer, a marked saving has resulted by taking crated grapes direct from the field to shipping cars, and that because of faster handling, grade of shipped fruit is improved.

The ladder, using a fast cam action, rather than a hydraulic action, has a capacity of 6,000 boxes per day, Appleby states. It was first tested last season, after two years of development, in several vineyards, including the Divizich vineyard south of Ducor; Gemurra Brothers, near Bakersfield; DiGiorgio ranch, at Arvin; Satarakian Brothers, at Delano, and American National Foods Co., at Lodi and Sacramento.

The ladder is operated by a one and three-quarter horse gasoline engine, geared to produce power equivalent to seven and one-half horsepower, Appleby says. A hand-operated model is also available.

Appleby says the ladder can be used to advantage for any field-packed crop, such as deciduous fruits, all kinds of vegetables, apples and cherries. The machine is flexible and can be gauged to any size box.

John Kohler, of Lodi, first built the field ladder; the Mecca company took over his patents with exclusive manufacturing rights.

Other men associated with the Mecca company, which is now being incorporated at $250,000, are Ray Pfeiffer, of Exeter, treasurer; Jeff Haesey, of Tulare, chairman of the board; and, others on the board; Ray Quiram and Curley Denton, of Porterville; Joe Turner, of Hanford; Jeff Jordan, of Strathmore and Ed Hanson, of Selma.
